Give me Riddleberger or give me death.—Mahone.

Conkling as the tail, thinks he must wag the dog. From a dispatch published elsewhere it appears that the dog will wag the tail.

Jack Haverly wants to lease McVicker's theater in Chicago, and McVickers wants him to lease it, but the rub is $100,000 difference in the estimate of its value.

A very remarkable incident occurred in Connecticut the other day which does not look far from offering a premium for murder. Some sixteen years ago, a man named Allen killed his brother while in a fit of passion, at New Milford, in that State. He was arrested, tried, convicted, and sentenced to the State prison for life. While confined in the penitentiary he demeaned himself in an excellent manner and succeeded in winning the respect and confidence of the prison officials. Very recently an effort was made to secure his pardon which proved successful. Had this been the end of it, nothing further would have been thought of the matter. But upon his release, the authorities presented him with a watch and $200 in cash. Not being content with this result upon common sense and justice, the authorities caused a reception to be given the criminal at the Governor's room in the capitol, and in the presence of the chief executive of the State, he was introduced to the other State officers, and to the members of the Legislature. This is one among not a few instances in which a man goes to prison a criminal and comes out a hero. The question might properly be asked, was this remarkable reception given in honor of his good conduct in prison, or the cold-blooded murder of his brother? However this may be, if he had not killed his brother he would never have been the central figure of such a striking demonstration. This circumstance will furnish food for very serious reflection.

There is a radical difference in the systems of Schurz and Kirkwood in appointing cleaks for the Interior department. The former, while he was Secretary, subjected all applicants to an examination by a board organized for that purpose. But Secretary Kirkwood proceeds upon an entirely different principle. The clerks are appointed "upon trial," and are not compelled to undergo such a rigid examination as under Mr. Schurz. If the clerks appointed in this manner prove to be unworthy or incompetent, they will be discharged at once, and their places filled with others. Commissioner Bentley, of the pension office, thinks this system will demoralize the public service and do an injustice to those who have served long and faithful in the departments, as new clerks will be appointed over them in many instances. Under the "examining" system young men fresh from school would pass the so-called examination by answering certain difficult questions, when a practical business man who knew ten times more than the school graduate, would fail. The best way to prove a man's capacity for certain work is to try him well, by putting him directly at it, and if he fails let some one else take his place. We believe that Secretary Kirkwood's system is founded on common sense and justice.

THE FUNERAL OF THE LATE SENATOR CARPENTER.

All that was mortal of Matthew Hale Carpenter was laid at home in the Forest Home cemetery at Milwaukee on Sunday. His death took from Wisconsin the greatest and the brightest man that ever lived in the State, and the bar of the United States, in that death, has lost the most brilliant and honorable member since the days of Rufus Choate. The funeral was the largest ever seen in Wisconsin, and excepting those of Lincoln, Douglass and Thomas H. Benton, it was the most imposing ever seen in the West. Full particulars regarding the scenes in Milwaukee, the speech of Senator Conkling in passing the remains over to the State authorities, the response of Governor Smith, the body lying in state, and the final services on Sunday, will be found in our telegraphic columns.

The career of Matthew H. Carpenter has been a remarkable one, and is well worth a study. He will take rank in history as one of the finest lawyers of the land, and as one of the most distinguished Senators of the United States. He may not have had the solid statesmanship of Webster, nor the remarkable eloquence of Clay, neither may he have had the powerful logic of Calhoun, but he was nevertheless one of the most distinguished men of his day. He may have been too independent to become a popular party man, and probably he was too great a lawyer to stick closely to party lines, when great constitutional questions were under discussion, but for all that he was true to Republican principles, and was honest in every course he took.

Mr. Carpenter will not go down in history as a great statesman. It can hardly be said that he made any speeches in the Senate which will have a permanent value, though several of them, especially the one made in reply to Sumner on neopotism, are brilliant and interesting. It is said that he did not contribute any thing to the current literature of the day, and never wrote a lecture, nor wrote upon any of the important public questions for the leading reviews of the country; but his greatest and most brilliant achievements were won in the line of his profession as a lawyer. His arguments before the Supreme Court of the United States are models of scholarship, industry, brilliancy, and legal learning, and have not been equalled for the last twenty years.

The people of this country who had seen Mr. Carpenter either on the stump, in the court room or in the Senate chamber, will not forget his fine personal appearance, his majestic bearing, his finely-modulated and silvery voice, his remarkably fine humor, his noble generosity, and his exceeding kindness of heart. He was admired by the people regardless of political lines, and in the language of the Chicago Journal, "the whole State mourns his untimely death, and his fellow-citizens of Wisconsin will never look upon his like again."

CARPENTER.

"His Cold Clay Belongs to Wisconsin, but His Fame is the Nation's Treasure—Feeling Remarks of Senator Conkling, of the Congressional Escort—Reply of Governor Smith on Behalf of the Family of the Dead Senator.

MILWAUKEE, April 9.—Milwaukee has been in mourning to-day. The day rose peaceful, unclouded, and bright, and with that solemn sense of quietude and calmness which the people who are in any way superstitious generally associate with momentous impending events. At a comparatively early hour in the morning flags could be discerned flying at half-mast in various portions of the city, and towards noon a tour through East Water, Clinton, Reed, and West Water streets, Grand avenue, Wisconsin and many other of the leading public thoroughfares and commercial centers showed every evidence of the profound interest with which the demise of our eminent statesman has inspired the residents of the city.

About 1 o'clock the various military organizations began to assemble and form in line on Broadway, in the presence of hundreds of interested spectators. From all points of the city anxious crowds began to set in shortly after the noon hour tolled towards the depot, and long before the special train bearing the cortege arrived the vicinity of the depot was practically impassable. From the summits of public and private buildings an ever extending line of flags at half-mast began to be displayed, as well as from the shipping moored at anchor in the river. A vast multitude of people was assembled on both sides of Broadway and overflowed into Wisconsin street, both east and west, and on both sides of the street. Long before the time at which the train bearing the funeral cortege was due, the Union depot on Reed street was the center of attraction to a large number of people, and at one o'clock the throng around the building was so large that it was with difficulty that a circuit of the platform could be made. The whole area around the depot was a sea of faces so closely crowded together that it was almost impossible to move in any direction. On the outer edge appeared the line of showily-caparisoned horses, impatient of control, and champing their bits till their dark frontals were flecked with foam, and still further beyond the blue coats and glittering decorations of the infantry. On every balcony and at every casement appeared the faces and forms of spectators, while all around numberless flags at half-mast floated droopingly, as though the dumb objects, inert, yet symbolic of the greatest country of the universe, were aware of the general sorrow that was visible in every face of the vast concourse.

At 2:15 o'clock p. m. the special funeral train moved in at the Union depot, and very promptly the cars were discharged of their burdens. The casket containing the dead Senator's body was by a detail of policemen tenderly transferred to the hearse in waiting, and with very slight delay because of the commendable care for all details of the march taken by Marshal Hincks and his aides, the funeral cortege, made up chiefly by those who came by train and the local militia organization, which attended for escort duty, started on its slow march to the court house, where until to-morrow afternoon the body is to lie in state.

At the court house the arrival of the body and accompanying concourse gave a first opportunity to those who thronged the edifice to witness the tasteful funeral ornamentation which had been made in the interior of the edifice. Over 2,000 yards of cloth were used in the draping, and the effect was very imposing. Flags are swung over the entrance, and in the centre is a raised dais of some twelve feet in length by eight feet in width, covered with blue black velvet, for the reception of the casket. The formal transfer of the custody of the dead senator's body from the congressional committee to the Wisconsin and Milwaukee officials occurred this afternoon at 3:30 o'clock. The ceremonial and addresses were brief, and a guard of honor was then placed in charge of the casket, to continue on duty through the night and up to the hour of the funeral to-morrow afternoon.

GOVERNOR: We are deputized by the Senate of the United States to bring back the ashes of Wisconsin's illustrious son, and reverently and tenderly return them to the great commonwealth he served so faithfully and loved so well. To Wisconsin the pale and sacred clay belongs, but the memory and the fame of Matthew Hale Carpenter are the nation's treasures, and long will the sisterhood of states mourn the bereavement which bows all hearts to-day.

Governor Smith responded as follows:

MR. CHAIRMAN AND GENTLEMEN OF THE CONGRESSIONAL COMMITTEE: As the representatives of the people of Wisconsin we accept the mortal remains of our gifted and well-beloved friend, and to-morrow we will bear them to their final resting-place in the beautiful cemetery adjato this city, which was his home for so many years. We beg you to accept our most sincere thanks for the courteous consideration you have shown to the people of Wisconsin in the action had by both Houses of Congress in respect to the memory of the illustrious dead, and in coming hither accompanying his sorrowing family upon this sad mission. We are very much gratified to know that you will reman with us to assist in in the last rites connected with the burial of our honored dead. You will thus witness for yourselves the estimation in which your late associate was held by his immediate neighbors and fellow-citizens. Gentlemen, again we thank you, and tender to you assurances of our appreciation of your kind offices to our deceased friend, whose remains we now receive from your considerate care.

SUNDAY RITES.

MILWAUKEE, April 10.—The funeral of the late Senator Carpenter to-day was the largest and most imposing known in Milwaukee for many years. As early as 6 o'clock this morning people began arriving at the court house, where the remains have been lying in state since their arrival yesterday, and before 10 o'clock the rotunda of the building was filled with a surging mass of humanity, all actuated by the same desire which forced people to silently steal in during the still, lonesome hours of the night and express their grief and sorrow, for the guard of honor reported that visitors had viewed the remains at intervals during the entire night. After the churches were dismissed the crowds that had been attending Palm Sunday services immediately proceeded to the court house, and it became almost impossible to move about in any direction. No disposition to make things disagreeable was at all noticeable, and the crowd in a very orderly manner passed from one entrance to the other, whispering to one another their condolence and grief. During the morning hours a number of floral offerings were sent in, and, with those which already ornamented the casket, made the air redolent with their perfumes.

As early as 1:30 o'clock the societies and others who were to take part in the demonstration commenced to gather about the Court-House. At 1:45 the doors of the building were closed, and many people were disappointed at not being able to get a glimpse of what they most desired. It was estimated that as many as 35,000 people passed through the building between the hours of 6 o'clock a. m. and 2 p. m. At the time the doors were closed an immense concourse of people had gathered about the building and entirely blockaded the streets in every direction. On Jefferson street from Wisconsin to Martin there was an unbroken mass of humanity, and the military and other organizations only made their way through with the greatest difficulty. Among the first to arrive of the military organizations was the Light Horse Squadron, and they arranged themselves immediately opposite the west entrance of the court house, in order to at once assume their position as the guard of honor about the hearse, when that vehicle was ready to depart for the cemetery. They were shortly followed by the following companies, which arranged themselves in the order named: Clauder's Band, Sheridan Guards, South Side Turner Rifles, Milwaukee Cadets, Uniformed Patriarchs, and the Knights of St. Patrick. The members of the Common Council gathered in the city clerk's office, and the members of the State Senate and Legislature, the State officers, and members of the supreme court were posted on the north side of the building. When the time arrived for the removal of the remains to the hearse, a cordon of police, under command of Lieutenant Dow, cleared a passage from the west entrance of the court house to the edge of the sidewalk, and the hearse was brought to its position and placed to receive the casket. The Light Horse Squadron had succeeded in keeping a space open along the point, which was occupied by General Hicks and his staff, together with the carriages containing the mourners and clergy. The hearse was drawn by four white horses caparisoned in harness trimmed with silver and covered with heavy black nets. At the proper moment the floral tributes were removed and the detail of police lifted the remains from their resting place and bore them to the hearse. The procession then formed on Jefferson street and moved southerly to Wisconsin street, westerly on Wisconsin street to Broadway, southerly on Broadway to Lake street, westerly on Lake street to Clinton, southerly on Clinton to Florida, westerly on Florida to Grove, southerly on Grove street to National avenue, westerly on National avenue to Seventh avenue, southerly on Seventh avenue to Mitchell street to Forest Home avenue, and on Forest Home avenue to the cemetery. All companies on foot were dismissed on National avenue, at the corner of Sixth avenue.

THE PROCESSION

then moved off toward the cemetery in the following order:

Chief Marshal Gen. E. W. Hinks and Aides.
Clauder's Band.
Milwaukee Light Horse Squadron.
Sheridan Guard.
South Side Rifles.
Milwaukee Cadets.
Uniformed Patriarchical Circle.
Knights of St. Patrick.
Pallbearers.
Carriage containing J. L. Cary, H. L. Palmer, Gov. Smith, and Judge Dyer.
Carriage containing Edward Sanderson, Winfield Smith, William P. Lynde, and James A. Mallory.
Hearse.
Carriages containing Senators Conkling, Jones, Logan, Cockrell, and Angus Cameron.
Carriage containing members of the House of Representatives.
Carriage containing the Rt.-Rev. Bishop Edward R. Welles, and the Rev. William Ashley.
Family of the deceased.

In the thirty four carriages that followed were the officers of State, the committees of the State Legislature, the Bar association, the Chamber of Commerce, the Merchants' Association, and officers of the city and county. The beautiful cemetery was reached a few minutes after 4 o'clock. The snow lay on the ground to the depth of three feet, and a clearing had to be made to dig the grave.

The wet ground was covered with boards and the newly made grave was covered with flowers. The family took a position at the head of the grave. The committees then ranged around, and Dr. Ashley read in an impressive manner the part of the Episcopal ritual that is usually recited at the grave. The ceremonies lasted only about fifteen minutes. The wife and daughter then strewed immortelles on the coffin and it was slowly lowered into mother earth. The assemblage soon dispersed, and the fitting honors paid to the dead chieftain were at an end.

CONKLING.

An Estimate of His Influence in the United States Senate.

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 9.—A warm friend of Mr. Conkling said yesterday that, from the best information he had been able to obtain, only two Democratic Senators have thus far committed themselves to vote against Robertson's confirmation. He named Senator Ransom, of North Carolina, and Senator Groome, of Maryland. When the vote was taken upon General Merritt's nomination in nomination in February, 1879, Mr. Conkling secured the help of Senators Cockrell, Eaton, Garland, McDonald, and Voorhees, Democrats, and David Davis, Independent, in his attempt to defeat General Merritt. The vote on that occasion was 34 to 24, so that eighteen Republicans were recorded in the negative. Eleven of them are not now members of the Senate. Of the thirteen Republicans who voted in the affirmative, eight—Burnside, Cameron of Wisconsin, Dawes, Ferry, Hoar, McMillan, Morrill, and Saunders—are still members of the Senate.

There is no reason to believe that any one of these would vote against Judge Robertson, and they would, in all probability, be reinforced by the votes of Senators Blair, Conger, Edgerton, Frye, Hale, Harrison, Hawley, Hill of Colorado, McDill, Miller, Platt of Connecticut, Sawyer, Sewell, Sherman, Van Wyck and perhaps some others. "Senatorial courtesy" does not generally weigh so heavily with new Senators as it does with those who have been years in senatorial service. Senator Conkling certainly cannot make a more bitter fight against Judge Robertson than he did against General Merritt, and then he was beaten by nine votes. There are many reasons to believe that Mr. Conkling cannot muster as many votes now against a strong nomination made by President Garfield, as he did two years ago against a nomination perhaps equally strong made by President Hayes.

THE EARTHQUAKE.

Between 6,000 and 7,000 People Killed Last Sunday at Scio—Confirmation of the Terrible Accident from the Stricken Isle.

SCIO, April 9—A medical commission is now sitting to consider the expediency of covering the rubbish in the fortress with earth, as there is no hope of saving any lives, and the disinterment of the dead might produce epidemic. It is now believed that throughout the whole island which contained 70,000 inhabitants, 6,000 or 7,000 were killed and 25 per cent of the survivors wounded. The French, British, United States and Austrian gun vessels in the harbor are doing all in their power to assist the authorities in the work of relief.

Only ten of the inhabitants of Chesme were killed, but there are many houses in ruins and 30,000 people are without shelter.

A correspondent at Scio telegraphs, under date of the 7th, as follows: "I have just arrived here from Constantinople, and I find a picture of desolation such as is rarely witnessed. The town looked as if it had been terribly bombarded. Hundreds of houses are transformed into a shapeless mass of ruins, under which lie buried an unknown number of victims. A majority of the remaining houses are already cracked and roofless, and may fall at any moment. Nearly every building in the town suffered more or less.

The inhabitants wander about, anxious to search for missing relatives or lost property, but afraid to risk their lives in the perilous work of clearing away the rubbish. Many who are willing to expose themselves to danger are prevented by friends or by the police. Fear, grief, and despair are depicted on nearly every face. Nearly all have some sad or tragic tale to tell. The first shock was felt Sunday afternoon, about half-past 1 o'clock. Immediately houses began to fall. Wild shrieks were heard on every side. Then followed an awful silence of some minutes. The terrified survivors gradually ventured into the narrow lanes and reached the open spaces. Shortly afterwards another terrible shock completed the devastation. All night shocks succeeded each other at short intervals, and each one was preceded by dull sounds like subterranean explosions. Since that frequent shocks have been felt. A few moments ago, while writing the present dispatch, I distinctly heard an explosion, and felt the earth tremble; but, as I am under canvas, I have nothing to fear.

THE FASTING WOMAN.

IOWA CITY, Iowa, April 10.—Miss Hattie Deuell at noon completed the forty-sixth day of starvation, and is yet living at 7 p. m., though much lower than for some days. The visits of Drs. Peck on Friday, and Cowperthwaite, yesterday, seem to have excited her, and made an artificial improvement in her condition. This morning she was weak and languid, almost unconscious, and somewhat restless, gradually growing worse toward evening. At 5 Dr. Cowperthwaite called at the house, Dr, and Mrs. Aylworth be ing anxious that he should see Miss Deuell. When his presence was mentioned to her she motioned for the alphabet card and slowly and feebly pointed out the letters for the words "Please don't let him in." Dr. Alyworth says her pulse varies exceedingly, and hardly beats perceptibly for a minute. Respiration is accompanied by blowing and forced expiration. Her whole appearance indicates a critical condition, though she may rally from this as she has from worse sinking spells. She has drank more water than usual during the day.

CHICAGO GOSSIP.

From our Regular Correspondent.

CHICAGO, April 9—During an interesting conversation lately, with a large fruit grower from Delaware, he informed your correspondent that out of 10,000 peach trees, he cannot find a live bud among the number, and he thinks that no peaches of any account will be raised the present season. He says that in former years the trees were generally blown from March 28th to April 5th, but the present spring show no signs of budding, whatever. The raspberry and blackberry crops, he thinks they also will prove entire failures. He had been along the Hudson river, and through Maryland, but could not find any fruit grower that would admit anything contrary to his impressions. He said that probably he was frightened unnecessarily in regard to the condition of affairs, respecting the condition of the peach crop especially, but as he had raised this fruit as a specialty for a number of years, he had gave apprehensions as to the result of the season.

A lady and gentleman walked to the crib—two and one-half miles, on Tuesday, over hummocks and icebergs, consuming four hours. They felt very sore and tired on arrival, but soon recuperated, and walked back the next day. The crib-keeper reports no open water as far as the eye can reach, from the top of the tower, nothing but ice, ice everywhere.

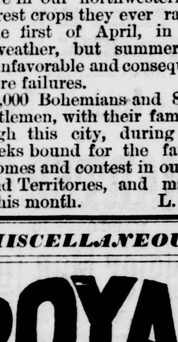

Carpenters wages have advanced to $2.75 per day, and brick makers to $3. Building materials of all kinds have likewise advanced, with a steady demand all around.

Farmers in the vicinity of Chicago feel very cheerful, notwithstanding the late, cold, backward spring. They say that the best crops they ever raised was not put in the ground until May, which was some years ago, and that the present year may show as good crops of everything as the most sanguine could wish. It would all depend on the summer and fall weather, as an early spring did not cut much of a figure in our northwestern climate. The poorest crops they ever raised, were sown the first of April, in beautiful balmy weather, but summer and fall proved unfavorable and consequently the crops were failures.

Over 1,000 Bohemians and 800 Canadian gentlemen, with their families passed through this city, during the past three weeks bound for the far west, to secure homes and contest in our western States and Territories, and many more will go this month. L. MOUAT.

About Earning Money.

If any one knows the value of money to the individual, it is a woman. A man may look at it in a wiser sense and think of the National debt and investments and mortgages, but in small sums it cannot after all be of half the importance to him that it is to a woman, who wants yards of ribbon and pounds of beads, bits of velvet, silk and lace, gilt things, silvered things, combs, bracelets, bangles and little bags, which could be of no use to one of the sex whose wear is cloth of various sad colors, and who having a watch, a scarf pin, a collar button, and a ring on his little finger, is provided with jewelry for life.

And yet who ever heard of a rational poor man who did not desire to make money, and did not make some whenever it was possible? While horror seizes the soul of many an impecunious young woman at the thought of earning a cent. Happily, a broader view of the matter is taken by a great many young women, from the sweet girl graduate who hopes to be a doctor or a lawyer, to the mechanic's daughter who early announces her intention of learning a trade. But still, in many a home where there is not half enough to provide for all, women draw themselves together and, even while they suffer privation, boast that they never earned anything.

An old father comes wearily home, after a long day's toil; a young brother breaks down with cares that are too great for him, and still the superstition that it degrades a woman to earn her own living will prevail among half a dozen sisters forced to small economies as to sugar in their tea and butter on their bread, to shabbiness and the attacks of infuriated tradesmen who naturally desire to be paid their little bills. They will do anything but "work for money."

Every day, as they peep from their windows at the world, they see happy, well-dressed women in the professions and in many trades, going to and fro to their work, comfortable with the wages in their pockets. They hear the notes of the piano by which some woman no more accomplished than they earns a little fortune as a teacher. Opposite is a flower painter who has pupils and sells her pictures.

But they say to each other and to their friends, "This would be impossible for us; we never earned a penny." And people are apt to say: "The Miss Hysons are so proud. They come of such a good family. They cannot condescend to work."

But are they proud? As a rule, the ladies who scorn to earn money do not scorn to take it as a gift. Their natural protectors gone they will quarter themselves on any relative who will open his house for them—a cousin, a cousin's cousin—any small plea of relationship is sufficient.

They will actually go a begging in a delicate and dainty way amongst friends and receive anything any one chooses to give.

And it is well known to every one that any offer of marriage to one of them which promises a comfortable home will be accepted.

This is the best end to be hoped for, but if the girls are not attractive they pass from one long suffering relative to another, until they are "bought into" Old Ladies' Homes or placed in genteel Institutions, where they still boast with their latest breath of their gentility and are as proud of never having earned a penny as they should be ashamed of it.

Certainly there are fewer such women in the world to-day than there were twenty years ago, but there are still enough to shame good, independent girls out of efforts in which they should be encouraged, with the old bugaboo story that "ladies never work for a livelihood." Ladies do, ladies will, if there is any need for it; for a true lady would rather do anything honest than be an object of charity; and in a womanly way, quite consistent with all the gentler emotions and all feminine charms, rejoices in the possibility of independence.—Mary Kyle Dallas, in N. Y. Ledger.

Successful Poultry Raising.

In raising poultry or stock it should be the aim of every one to keep it healthy and improve it. You can do it very easily by adopting some systematic rules. These may be summed up in brief as follows:

1. Construct your house good and warm, so as to avoid damp floors, and afford a flood of sunlight. Sunshine is better than medicine.
2. Provide a dusting and scratching place where you can bury wheat and corn and thus induce the fowls to take needful exercise.
3. Provide yourself with some good healthy chickens, none to be over three or four years old, giving one cock to very twelve hens.
4. Give plenty of fresh air at all times of the year, especially in summer.
5. Give plenty of fresh water daily, and never allow the fowls to go thirsty.
6. Feed them systematically, two or three times a day and scatter the food so they can't eat too fast or without proper exercise. Do not feed more than they will eat up clean, or they will get tired of that kind of feed.
7. Give them a variety of both dry and cooked food; a mixture of cooked meal and vegetables is an excellent thing for their morning meal.
8. Give soft feed in the morning, and the whole grain at night, except a little wheat or cracked corn placed in the scratching place to give them exercise during the day.
9. Above all things keep the hen house clean and well ventilated.
10. Do not crowd too many in one house. If you do look out for disease.
11. Use carbolic powder in the dusting bins occasionally to destroy lice.
12. Wash your roosts and bottom of laying nests and whitewash once a week in summer, and once a month in winter.
13. Let the old and young have as large a range as possible—the larger the better.
14. Don't breed too many kinds of fowls at the same time, unless you are going into the business. Three or four will give your hands full.
15. Introduce new blood into your stock every year or so, by either buying a cockerel or sittings of eggs from some reliable breeder.
16. In buying birds or eggs, go to some reliable breeder who has his reputation at stake. You may have to pay a little more for birds, but you can depend on what you get. Culls are not cheep at any price.
17. Save the birds for next year's breeding and send the others to market. In shipping fancy poultry to market send it dressed.—Rural Nebraska.

Fraud.

Tens of thousands of dollars are squandered yearly upon traveling Quacks, who go from town to town professing to cure all the ills that our poor humanity is heir to, why will not the public learn common sense and if they are suffering from Dyspepsia or Liver complaint, invest a dollar in Spring Blossom, sold by all druggists and endorsed by the faculty, see testimonials. Prices: $1, 50c., and trial bottles 10c.

Journalistic Amenities.

The unsophiscated readers of those influential journals doubtless imagine that the editor of the Petaluma Peavine and Vallejo Vengeance are bitter and ferocious foes. It is quite possible that neither of these gentlemen would speak to the other in their respective towns for untold wealth; it would spoil the effect of the terrible personal denunciations indulged in throughout each issue of their respective sheets. But away from the glare of the rustic eye the case is entirely changed. These warriors of the flowing pen met in San Francisco last week and took lunch together—something of almost weekly occurrence, we understand. Happening to occupy the next box to the twain in the restaurant, we naturally overheard some of their conversation.

"How is it, my dear old boy, you called me a 'putrid pirate of perdition' only twice in your paper yesterday?" said the Peavine man, reproachfully. "It was hardly the square thing when I designated you as a 'scalawag of the nether slums' four times on Wednesday."

"It was entirely through the stupidity of my assistant, dear old friend. I wrote with my own hand a half-column leader headed 'The Crawling Reptile Squirms Again,' but a high-rate circus ad. came in and crowded it out," replied the Vengeance proprietor.

"That was tough luck," sighed the Peavine director sawing away on his crop; "I felt it all the more as that very day I announced that you served two terms at Sing Sing for burglary, and there was no doubt of your having deserted three wives in Texas."

"Just like your kind of thoughtfulness," returned the other molder of public thought, as he ordered more coffee. "I was also exceedingly gratified and touched by your article of Sunday last week, to the effect that I committed forgery at nineteen and that my mother was a colored woman."

"O, don't mention it, old fellow; besides, didn't you say, the day before yesterday, that I cheated a blind widow out of her last cent and was ridden on a rail in New York for infanticide?"

There was a moment of retrospective silence, during which both cronies were too full of emotion to speak. Finally the Vallejo man said, softly:

"I didn't mean to tell you, Bill, old man—in fact, I intended it as a pleasant surprise for you—but the truth is I am working up a superb item connecting you with the Nathan murder, with absolute proofs, and affidavit of a confession said to have been made by you when sick in the Penitentiary for arson."

"Heaven bless you, dear boy! I don't know how I get along without you these dull times. However, to-morrow I'll complete a beautiful little thing I've been working up, proving you to be the younger Bender, and appealing to the Vigilance Committee to turn out. I'll send you a proof."

Not long ago a strange scene took place in a pretty garden not a hundred miles from London. The tree shaded lawn was scattered over with seats, with here and there a bright-colored Persian rug for the special behoof of any guests who object to open air amusements on account of the "damp grass." To some minds grass is always damp. It was early in the afternoon, and the only tenants of the garden were the servants, who were arranging refreshments upon some tables under the trees. They seemed full of nods and becks and whispers of apparently mysterious import passed among them. A carriage drives up to the gate and two ladies, entering, look around for their hostess. The servant who has admitted them goes in search of his mistress, and a few moments afterwards a young and beautifully dressed woman issues from the house, her face deeply flushed, her eyes half closed and her gait uncertain. Just at this moment another carriage drives up, a gentleman and lady being the occupants. They, too, enter by the garden gate and advance towards the house across the lawn. As they approach the uncertain, swaying figure of their hostess they look at each other significantly, and the lady says in a low voice, "I was afraid of this. Where can Mr. X. be to allow her to be seen in this state?"

The interpretation of those wild looks, that disordered hair and those meaningless words is that Mrs. X. is intoxicated, though not sufficiently so to be quite helpless. She wanders about among her guests, her condition, however, being so palpable, so unmistakable, that the majority laugh and titter, while the friendly few pity though they condemn her. The painful scene was ended by the arrival of her husband, whose look of misery, as he led his wife on his arm through the groups of gayly-dressed people into the house, touched even the laughers with pity.—London Truth.

The Grand Canon of the Gunnison, which begins only a short distance from town, is equal in grandeur and wildness of scenery to the Canon of the Colorado, and throws the Canon of the Arkansas into the shade. It is upwards of forty miles long, and the mountains rise on either side to the height of upwards of 5,000 feet. As yet, the trout alone traverse the cleft mountain pass. The quickest way to send or get a dispatch from the outside world is via Lake City. The time consumed between Lake City and Gunnison is one stage, or twelve hours, while a dispatch from South Arkansas requires five days to reach here, as it follows the present very circuitous mail route, and takes the back track to Pueblo, thence to Alamosa, Lake City and Gunnison, over 300 miles out of a direct route. Thus, a dispatch sent from Denver to Gunnison via South Arkansas would take two days longer to reach its destination than would a letter from the same point. The Denver & Rio Grande Railroad people say they will be in Gunnison before the snow of this year covers the prairie. They are coming by way of Arbourville, over Little Cochetopa Pass, striking the Monarch Pass toll road at the mouth of Marshall Creek. The surveyors are now working down the Tomichi. Work on the extension will begin at once. No town ever gave a company a more hearty welcome than Gunnison will give the Denver & Rio Grande.—Gunnison News.

Orpha M. Hodge, of Battle Creek, Mich., writes May 16, 1878: "I upset a teakettle of boiling hot water on my hand, inflicting a very severe scald. I applied Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, and take great pleasure in announcing to you that the effect was to allay pain and prevent blistering. I was cured in three days. We prize it very highly as a family medicine."

A Strange Story of a Sea Captain,

Captain J. Niven, of Thorntown, Indiana, is a grandson of Sir Hugh Niven, of England, but his older brother got the patrimony and John defiantly shipped before the mast. After many years he rose to be master of his vessel, the Ramsey, and the famous missionary Adoniram Judson went to India with him. Under his ministrations Niven was converted and baptized in Qangoon, Hindoostan. Soon afterward the ship was struck by lightning and destroyed. Niven made his escape to England, where in 1846 he was entrusted with the ship Earl of Englanton, built on the Earl's estate and sent by him on her first voyage to the United States. He was beset by a terrible storm off Nantucket Island, and after beating about all day and night in a dense fog, went ashore at Tom Never's Head. Two boats containing four men each were lowered. The Captain ordered that they be not launched until they saw how bad the breakers were, but they disobeyed him, and six of the eight men were lost. The islanders had now arrived. The breakers drowned their voices, but they chalked on the tail-board of a cart, "Stay aboard," and then, "Fling off an oar." The Captain followed these directions; the oar, with a line tied to it, was cast off and caught with a fish drail, and, by that means, a cable was rigged from the mast-head to the rocks, with a horse's hames on it, in which the men slid safely ashore. Captain Niven was the last man to leave the wreck, when the hames broke and he was flung into the sea. The islanders at once formed a line by holding hands and sprang into the breakers after him, thus bringing him to land. When he heard that his six men were lost, he was temporarily deranged and jumped again into the boiling waters. Again they rescued him and put him into custody. He was badly bruised and was a long time recovering. The ship was a total loss. He returned to Great Britain, where his friends again fitted him out, and he started a whaling voyage in the Pacific. There again his vessel went to pieces in a simoon and he returned, disconsolate, to Nantucket. His seafaring reputation was badly damaged. Indeed, it is probable that the red letter of "bad luck" was set opposite his name in the records of the commercial marine of England and that he could not have obtained another ship. At any rate he resolved to face the sea no more, but to get as far from it as possible in some quiet town in the middle of the continent. So he started west on foot with $2 in his pocket. Walking the tow path of the Erie Canal, a boatman hailed him pleasantly with "Hello! you are two good-looking a man to be walking the tow-path. Jump aboard." The Captain jumped aboard, and made himself so useful in splicing ropes and putting things in shape that he was gladly carried to Buffalo. There he got a job to rig a sloop for the lake, and received enough for it to take him to Cleveland. There he shoveled sand on the new railroad at $1 a day, was promoted to the charge of a gang at $1.25 a day, was advanced in the winter to be schoolmaster, became a farmer by slow degrees, and is now president of the First National Bank in Thorntown, Ind. He has a handsome home known as "Chrome Hill;" but he occasionally visits Nantucket, and lives over again his perils and his escapes.

H. A. PATTERSON. P. M.

Small Farming in the South.

The phrase "small farming," used of the South, crops out in directions curious enough to one unacquainted with the special economies and relations of existence in that part of our country. While large farming in the South means exclusive cotton-growing—as it means in the West exclusive wheat-growing or exclusive corn-growing—small farming means diversified farm-products; and a special result of the Southern conditions of agriculture has brought about a still more special sense of the word, so that in Georgia, for example, the term "small farmer" brings up to every native mind the idea of a farmer who, besides his cotton crop, raises corn enough to "do" him. But again, the incidents hinging upon this apparently simple matter of making corn enough to do him are so numerous as, in turn, to render them the distinctive feature of small farming. Small farming means, in short, meat and bread for which there are no notes in bank; pigs fed with home-made corn and growing of themselves while the corn and cotton were being tended; yarn spun, stockings knit, butter made and sold (instead of bought); eggs, chickens, peaches, water-melons, the four extra sheep and a little wool, two calves and a beef—all to sell every year, besides a colt who is now suddenly become, all of himself, a good, serviceable horse; the four oxen, who are as good as gifts made by the grass, and a hundred other items, all representing income from a hundred sources to the small farmer, which equally represent outgo to the large farmer—items, too, scarcely appearing at all on the expense side of the strictest account-book, because they are either products of odd moments which, if not so applied, would not have been at all applied, or products of natural animal growth, and grass at nothing a ton. All these ideas are inseparably connected with that of the small farmer in the South.

The extent of this diversity of produc possible upon a single small farm in Georgia, for instance, and the certain process by which we find these diversified products presently creating demands for the village library, the neighborhood farmers' club, the amateur Thespian society, the improvement of the public schools, the village orchestra, all manner of betterments and gentilities and openings out into the universe, show significantly, and even picturesquely, in a mass of clippings which I began to make a couple of years ago, from a number of country papers in Georgia, upon the idea that these unconsidered trifles of mere farmers' neighborhood news, with no politics behind them and no argumentative coloring in front of them, would form the best possible picture of actual small-farm life in the South—that is, of the New South.

To read these simple and homely scraps is indeed much like a drive among the farms themselves with the ideal automaton guide, who confines himself to telling you that this field is sugar-cane, that one yonder is cotton, the other is rice. and so on, without troubling you for responsive exclamation or other burdensome commentary.

Rambling among these cuttings one sees growing side by side, possibly upon a single small farm, corn, wheat, rice, sugar-cane, cotton, peaches, plums, apples, pears, figs, water-melons, cantaloups, musk-melons, cherries, strawberries, raspberries, blackberries, Catawba grapes, Isabella, Scuppernongs, peas, soup-beans, butter-beans, okra, squash, beets, oyster-plant, mustard, cress, cabbage, turnips, tomatoes, cauliflower, asparagus, potatoes, onions; one does not fail, too, to catch a glimpse of pigs sauntering about, chickens singing, colts flinging their heels at you and off down the pasture, calves likewise, cows caring not for these things, sheep on the rising ground, geese and turkeys passim, perhaps the green-gray moss—surely designed by nature to pack vegetables in and send them "North"—a very bed of dew for many days after cutting, and the roses and morning-glories everywhere for a benison.—Sidney Lanier, in Scribner's Monthly.

Young Sawbones.

Some young surgeons, when accidents happen,
In order their great skill to show,
Cut the leg off close to the thigh,
When they only should cut off the toe;
Like cutting off a dog's tail by the ears,
Or the skinning alive of the frog,
It's all very well as a surgical case,
But devilish tough on the dog.
'Tis much better by far when you're wounded,
Or have either Cut, Bruise or Burn,
To find Eclectric Oil is the very best thing,
And it won't take you long so to learn.

HOME, FARM AND GARDEN.

STRAW-MATTING may be cleaned with a large coarse cloth, dipped in salt and water, and then wiped dry. The salt prevents the straw from turning yellow.

GROUND bone, bone meal and fine granulated bone are all merchantable articles nowadays, and large quantities of this very economical provision for poultry are used by those who understand its value.

HORSERADISH SAUCE.—Grate the horseradish, boil an egg hard, pound the yelk, and add to the above a little raw cream, mustard and vinegar added the last thing. It must all be mixed cold, and then beaten.

GRAPEVINES should not be planted more than six inches deep, as most of the roots grow near the surface. Vines that have been laid down or covered should be fastened upon the trellis before the buds start.

ROLL JELLY CAKE.—One cup sugar, three eggs, one cup flour, one teaspoon cream tartar, half teaspoon soda; beat whites and yelks separate, add flour gradually; bake on large drippers and when done turn on a cloth, spread with jelly, then roll.

COFFEE CAKE.—One cup each sugar, molasses, butter; four cups flour, two cups seeded raisins, one cup strong coffee poured on butter; when cool, add sugar, etc., three eggs, one teaspoon each cloves, cinnamon, nutmeg, little citron, one teaspoon soda, half teaspoon cream tartar.

SPONGE CAKE.—Seven eggs, whites and yelks together, three-quarters of a pound of sugar dissolved in half a tumbler of water, let it melt and just come to a boil; half a pound of flour, one teaspoonful of yeast powder, one teaspoonful extract of lemon, beat eggs and sugar together until very light, then add the flour.

CHEESE OMELET.—Butter the sides of a deep dish and cover with thin slices of rich cheese; sprinkle with pepper and mustard; lay over the cheese thin slices of buttered bread, then another layer of cheese, and season. Beat the yelk of an egg in a cup of milk and pour over the dish, and put at once into the oven; and bake until a light brown. It must be served at once.

FURNITURE POLISH.—For a polish to clean up and brighten old furniture, pianos, etc., dissolve four ounces orange shellac in one quart of ninety-five per cent. alcohol; to this add one quart of linseed oil and one pint of turpentine; when mixed add four ounces of sulphuric ether and four ounces of aqua ammonia; mix thoroughly and well before using. Apply with a cloth or sponge, and rub the surface to which it is applied until the polish appears.

A CORRESPONDENT of the Ohio Farmer states that excellent results attended the use of dry unleached wood ashes as a preventive of the ravages of cabbage worms. The ashes were thrown on top of each plant, pains being taken by the operator to jar the plant by hitting it with the foot, so as to shake the ashes down thoroughly between the leaves. Not only were the worms killed but "the cabbage instead of taking hurt from the bountiful application started with new life and energy." Several weeks later it was found necessary to repeat the application. The result of the experiment was an unusually fine crop.

FOR TEA DRINKERS.—Tea-drinkers now-a-days will do well to apply the following simple test to the tea purchased of their grocers. Turn out the infused leaves, and if they are found of a good brown color, with fair substance, the tea will be wholesome; but if the leaves are black and of a rotten texture, with an oily appearance, the tea will not be fit to drink. The purer the tea the more the distinctively brown color of the leaf strikes the attention. The mixing that is frequently adopted to reduce prices results in the two kinds of leaves being supplied together. It is important to see that the leaves have the serrated or saw-like edges, without which no tea is genuine.

TREATMENT FOR SCRATCHES.—M. D. S., Pamlico County, N. C.: Scratches is caused by a diseased condition of the blood, together with a concurrent irritation of the skin caused by exposure to wet or mud. It is dangerous to apply axle-grease to any diseased skin, as that may be very impure and cause a worse trouble. The proper remedy is to give a cooling purgative, as twelve ounces of epsom salts, to wash the legs with warm water and soap, and apply a mixture of four ounces of lard, one ounce of turpentine, and halt an ounce of verdigris (acetate of copper) well rubbed together, after wiping the legs dry with a soft cloth. After the salts have operated give one ounce of hyposulphite of soda daily until the disease disappears.—N. Y. Times.

Culinary Gems.

It is impossible to get warm in cold weather with undigested food in your stomach.

The stew is the great dish of the future.

Bread is the principal stay of life. But it is not the only stay and developer of life. Where much bread and heavy flour dumplings are eaten without due admixture of animal food or vegetables, we shall find the people of rather an imaginative, sullen, dogged temperament, prone to drinking habits and likely to be led away by excessive means of religious and other excitement.

The want of a warm meal in the middle of the day is to people who have had perhaps but a slight breakfast and have been in the cold winter air the cause of disease and want of vitality.

Exclusive diet on peas, beans and lentils do not develop the brightest and quickest tone of mind.

If meals are kept irregularly in youth something creeps up in adult age which shows diminished vitality. Loose meals are one cause of loose morals.

Food with herbs, condiments, spices and curries is an exhilarating medium, the support of our nervous system, our aspirations, our higher tendencies of life.

Stews should not be cooked too long, as then they evaporate valuable particles.

Food is only coarse when coarsely cooked, as the plainest materials contain nutritious and dainty elements.

The uncertainty of meal taking brings with it a craving for stimulants.

Fish should never be boiled, but steamed, so that no fine properties are dissolved in the water.

Vegetables are the life and soul of healthy living, and should not be neglected at any meal.—From "How to Live in Winter."

FOR

NERVOUS DEBILITY AND SPERMATORRHŒA.

A valuable Discovery and New Departure in Medical Science, an entirely New and positively effective Remedy for the speedy and permanent Cure of Seminal Emissions and Impotency by the only true way, viz: Direct Application to the principal Seat of the Disease, acting by Absorption, and exerting its specific influence on the Seminal Vesicles, Ejaculatory Ducts, Prostate Gland, and Urethra. The use of the Remedy is attended with no pain or inconvenience, and does not interfere with the ordinary pursuits of life; it is quickly dissolved and soon absorbed, producing an immediate soothing and restorative effect upon the sexual and nervous organizations wrecked from self-abuse and excesses, stopping the drain from the system, restoring the mind to health and sound memory, removing the Dimness of Sight, Nervous Debility, Confusion of Ideas, Aversion to Society, etc., etc., and the appearance of premature old age usually accompanying this trouble, and restoring perfect Sexual Vigor, where it has been dormant for years. This mode of treatment has stood the test in very severe cases, and is now a pronounced success. Drugs are too much prescribed in these troubles, and, as many can bear witness to, with but little if any permanent good. There is no Nonsense about this Preparation. Practical observation enables us to positively guarantee that it will give satisfaction. During the eight years that it has been in general use, we have thousands of testimonials as to its value, and it is now conceded by the Medical Profession to be the most rational means yet discovered of reaching and curing this very prevalent trouble, that is well known to be the cause of untold misery to so many, and upon whom quacks prey with their useless nostrums and big fees. The Remedy is put up in neat boxes, of three sizes. No. 1, (enough to last a month,) $3; No. 2, (sufficient to effect a permanent cure, unless in severe cases,) $5; No. 3, (lasting over three months, will stop emissions and restore vigor in the worst cases,) $7. Sent by mail, sealed, in plain wrappers. Full DIRECTIONS for using will accompany EACH BOX.

(Send for Sealed Descriptive Pamphlets giving Anatomical Illustrations and Testimony, which will convince the most skeptical that they can be restored to perfect manhood, and fitted for the duties of life, same as if never affected. Sold ONLY by)

It is also a "Private Medical Adviser" on diseases resulting from impure sexual associations, and on self-abuse—the secret habit of youth—and its effect on after life, causing Nightly Emissions, Loss of Vigor, etc., and making marriage improper or unhappy, giving treatment and many valuable receipts. A book for private and considerate reading that no adult should be without, as ignorance on these subjects causes a great deal of misery. It contains much that is not in any other book, and has 600 pages, with over 100 Plate Engravings and Woodcuts. Sent sealed for $1.

DR. PRICE'S REPUTATION!

Hha been acquired by candid, honest dealing and years of successful practice.

My practice, not one of experiment, but founded on the laws of Nature, with years of experience and evidence to sustain it, does not tear down, make sick to make well; no harsh treatment, no trifling, no flattering. We know the cause and the remedy needed; no guess work, but knowledge gained by years of experience in the treatment of Chronic Diseases exclusively; no encouragement without a prospect. Candid in our opinions, reasonable in our charges, claim not to know everything or cure everybody, but do lay claim to reason and common sense. We invite the sick, no matter what their ailment, to call and investigate before they abandon hope, make interrogations and decide for yourselves; it will cost nothing as consultation is free. Visits made regularly.

BRIEFLETS.

—Scoop up the mud.

—Clean of the crossings.

—To-day is a wishy-washy one for the shop windows.

—Mrs. H. L. Barlow returned from the East, last week.

—Twenty years ago to-day Fort Sumpter was bombarded.

—Old folk concert at the Congregational church to-night.

—Officer Brown has the gang of tramps at work on Ruger avenue to-day.

—The postoffice floor serves as a popular place for the boys to play marbles on Sunday,

—There are less than twenty prisoners in jail to-day, a smaller number than at any time since Sheriff Skavlem came into office.

—The fronts of the stores occupied by Britton & Kimball, and F. S. Lawrence & Co., are being repainted in an attractive manner.

—Miss Bessie Skavlem, who is attending the Normal school at Whitewater, is in the city, visiting her brother, Sheriff Skavlem.

—William Lawrence, who is still teaching in Milwaukee, is at home for a brief vacation, visiting his father, G. W. Lawrence, and many friends.

—A. E. Morse, who lately went from here to Topeka, Kansas, has now gone still further, and is settled for the present at Albuquerque, New Mexico.

—D. R. Stout, who has been at Richland Center for some time past, is home again, and has resumed his old position as salesman in M. C. Smith & Son's.

—C. L. Mengel, of Chicago, who has just left the employ of the Garfield manufacturing company there, is spending a few days in the city, the guest of H. F. Bliss.

—James Leonard pleaded guilty to a Saturday night drunk and was to-day fined $10 and costs by Justice Nolan, and in default of payment to be confined in jail for twelve days.

—A pair of rabbers were found in the gutter front of Tallson & Peterson's store. They doubtless belong to that stray arm found back of Hibbard's store. Now hunt up the rest of the man.

—Janesville City Division, Son's of Temperance, at their last regular meeting, adopted resolutions congratulating Sanford A. Hudson on his appointment as Judge in Dakota, and expressive of their confidence and esteem.

—John Croft, an uncle of T. T. Croft, is in the city. He came from England last October, intending to make the west his home for life, but the extremes of weather, the big snow drifts, etc., have discouraged him, and he has decided to sail again for "Merrie England" on the dawning of May-day.

—Robert Ellison who has taken a three years lease of the fair grounds, purposes cultivating a portion of it, putting in tobacco mainly. He will keep the track up in excellent condition, for the convenience of those who handle horses, and for those who delight in driving speedy ones, and all these will be glad indeed that it has fallen into such good hands.

—The sad news reaches here of the death of Thomas J. Beers, which occurred at his home in St. Jo, Missouri, last Saturday afternoon, after an illness of several months. Mr. Beers was a brother of Mrs. Silas Hayner, and had other relatives and friends here, who will mourn his death. His remains are to be taken for interment to Fremont, Neb., where his wife's family live.

—At the meeting of the Round Table Saturday night Rev. T. P. Sawin completed the reading of his paper, continued from the meeting before, on the French type of mind. Miss Zeininger read an excellent paper on the Troubadours. Rev. T. W. MacLean portrayed several French characters, as indicative of what the French mind was capable. Rev. F. L. Chapell gave a clearly written paper on Pascal. The attendance was fair, and the session one of interest and profit.

—Jacob Fowler, the Indian doctor was on a Saturday night drunk. He went into Church's block, and meeting a lady in the hall who lives there, and was passing from one room to another, nearly frightened her into a faint, by giving a sudden war-whoop. He then dashed down onto the street, and when Officer Smith followed him up, he caught up a rock, which he was going to use as a weapon of defense or offense, but he was collared and taken to jail. To-day he pleaded guilty to being drunk and disorderly, and was fined $10 and costs, in default of which he was sent to jail for twelve days.

—Dr. Strassman will remain in the city only this week, and those who need any treatment for the eye, or any aid by glasses, should not delay in calling upon him at the Myers house. During his stay here Dr. Strassman has done some excellent work and shown much skill in the treatment of cases. Those who have consulted him and patronized him speak highly of him, and express themselves as perfectly satisfied with his treatment and his glasses. He is not a mere seller of spectacles, but is an educated oculist, applying science with experience in determining the causes of defective vision and diseases of the eye, and remedying the one and treating the other, by the latest scientific methods. His stay here has been of sufficient length and his patronage of sufficient extent, to test his powers thoroughly, and the test has satisfied the public that he is what he represents himself to be.

—Among the tramps now in jail is one interesting sort of a character, who claims to have spent fourteen years of his life in the far West, among mines and miners, hunters and mountaineers, and seems so thoroughly posted upon people and things that there is little doubt but that he has been there. His story, whether true or not, is interesting. He says that he had $3,500 in cash, and started East with it, and on visiting St. Louis and then Chicago, he soon got fleeced out of the whole, and his experience has led him into the following philosophy—"Civilizashun? Talk uv civilizashun? Why, yer want ter go out the mountins, to git it. This haint no civilized country. Out thar they gambles, but they gambles fair and square, and a man has got a chance, but hereabouts, they put 'em up on a feller and rob him, and when his dust is gone he haint given the privilege of letting daylight through the robber. Talk about civilizashun! There haint none here. If a feller packs 'em on ye out thar, ye can bore him thro. This 'ere country don't give a square deal. It haint civilized—taint white."

Prentice and Evenson, the Druggists opposite the Post office, Janesville, Wis. Keep nothing but the finest drugs and chemicals. Physicians' prescriptions and family recipes accurately prepared from pure and fresh drugs, cheaper than at any other reliable drug store in the county. All the medicines advertised in this paper are sold by Prentice and Evenson, the Druggists opposite the Post office.

A SURPRISE

Rev. F. L. Chapell Resigns the Pastorate of the Baptist Church.

It will be a surprise to many to learn that Rev. F. L. Chapell, has resigned the pastorate of the Baptist Church of this city, and it was in fact a surprise to most of his own congregation even, when at the morning service yesterday he read the following letter:

JANESVILLE, Wis., April 10, 1881.

To the First Baptist Church and Society:

DEAR BRETHREN AND FRIENDS—Ever since the death of my foster father, more than a year ago, I have found it exceedingly difficult to discharge, even to my satisfaction, my filial duties at the East and my pastoral duties at the West. And as Providence has in a very marked manner opened to me a very inviting field in the East, I feel that it is my duty to transfer my residence there, that I may the better fulfil the sacred duties, both filial and pastoral, that are incumbent upon me. Therefore, thanking you all for your many kindnesses to me and my family while with you, and with my best wishes and earnest prayers for your future prosperity, I hereby resign the pastorate of this church and society, said resignation to take effect at the expiration of the present month.

Yours very fraternally,

F. L. CHAPELL.

The letter was referred to the trustees and deacons of the church, and in view of the circumstances explained in the resignation, it will doubtless be accepted. Mr. Chapell has received a call to the church in Flemington, New Jersey, one of the oldest, largest and strongest churches of the denomination in that State. He will there be within a few hours ride of his old Connecticut home, whence family and business duties call him so often, and the call will be accepted. This will necessitate a change here much to be regretted.

Mr. Chapell has for three years past ministered faithfully and acceptably to the wants of the church here, and has gathered about him a large circle of friends. The church under his pastorate has grown and prospered, and its present condition is proof enough that his work has not been in vain. His family too have endeared themselves to the people of Janesville, both inside and outside of the church itself, and many there are who will regret that he and his are to take their leave, but all will join in a unanimous well-wishing for their future prosperity and happiness. The church to which he has been called may well congratulate itself on having gained a man so able in mind and true in heart.

Burnett's Cocoaine for the Loss of Hair.

CHICAGO, Oct. 11, 1880.

Three years ago my hair was coming out very fast, and I was nearly bald. I was also troubled with dandruff. I began using BURNETT'S COCOAINE, and my hair immediately stopped coming out, and has constantly been getting thicker. My head is now entirely free from dandruff. My wife has used the COCOAINE with equally gratifying results.

A JANESVILLE MURDERER.

A Guilty Conscience Drives a Man Finally to Suicide.

A telegram to the Chicago Tribune states that an Irish laborer, named Jack Freeman, committed suicide at the little town of Hartville, Penn., on the 5th inst. The coroner's inquest brought out facts showing that the suicide, if not a murderer, had some guilty thing weighing upon his conscience. His wife seemed disinclined to testify, but she finally startled the jury with the remark "Well, he is dead now, and I dare tell." She intimated that some years ago her husband was implicated in the murder of a man at Janesville.

It is thought by some of the old residents here that he must have been the one who murdered Thomas Branks, a man who was mysteriously shot in May, 1861. Branks was just entering his house on the eve of town election day, when he was fired upon by one of a crowd with whom he had been drinking. No arrest was made, and the matter has since remained a mystery. Perhaps it is the remembrance of this murder that caused the moodiness which finally resulted in murder.

Another mysterious murder for the commission of which no one was ever convicted was the stabbing of a man named Connor, in a fight near the race, July 3, 1854.

UNITED FOR LIFE.

An event which has not been unlooked for by the immediate friends of the contracting parties, took place on Thursday, March 31st, it being the marriage of Mr. Frank Case, of Evansville, to Miss Lizzie, eldest daughter of the late R. P. Bleasdale. The ceremony was performed at the family residence of the bride, in the town of Janesville, by the Rev. F. M. Washburn, of Evansville, Miss Eva Silverthorn acting as bridesmaid, and Mr. Frank Bleasdale, of Racine, as groomsman. The wedding was a quiet one, only a few of the relatives being in attendance.

The presents received were many, some of them valuable and all useful. Among the rest were: Silver caster and silver cake basket from Mr. and Mrs. M. R. Case. Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Fellows presented a silver pickle dish. Messrs. Fred and Lou Fellows, a set of solid silver spoons. The Gilman family, a silver butter dish. Orrie Case, a silver spoon holder; Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Morse, silver cream and sugar spoons; Mr. and Mrs. B. Bleasdale, a set of silver knives and forks and a silver berry spoon; Frank Bleasdale and Miss Eva Silverthorn, silver pie knife and silver cake knife; Miss Ella Silverthorn, a framed motto, tastefully worked by herself; Brother Joe and sister Aggie Bleasdale, a neck pin and a brooch; Mr. and Mrs. Lee, set of glass ware; Mr. and Mrs. Bishop, bronze parlor lamp; Mr. and Mrs. C. Scofield, 1 dozen napkins; Cora and Gracie Scofield, pretty little vase; Grandma Fellows, table linen; Mr. and Mrs. Case, bed spread and napkins; Mrs. McKinney, set of goblets; Miss Nellie Ennis, set of sauce dishes; Miss Maud McCue, set frosted glass ware; Messrs. Burgess and Burke, a camp chair; Brother Ralph, Tennyson's poems; and sister Annie, a pair of vases.

The Darlington relatives of the bride, although unable to attend the wedding, showed their well wishes by sending a barrel filled with presents, many of which will no doubt prove useful. Mr. and Mrs. D. Schreiter sent a full chamber set; Grandma Bleasdale a pair of hose lined with gold coin; Ed. Schreiter, a tray and brush; Mrs. J. Driver, an elegant bedspread and linen; Mr. and Mrs. James Driver, a comb case and comb and brush; Mrs. Dr Pullinh, "The complete home;" Mr. Joe Driver, Holland's complete poems; Mrs. R. P. Bleasdale, the brides' mother, presented a full set of china.

After partaking of a bounteous dinner, the happy couple started for Evansville, where they intend to reside for the present. We understand that had the skies been more favorable they had intended to make quite a wedding trip before settling down to a quiet wedded life; but taking into consideration the uncertainty of the weather, the dangerous condition of the roads in the event of a break-up, and the unpleasantness necessarily attending the enforced residence in a snow bank to which all travellers are still subject, they wisely concluded to defer their tour till a more favorable time.

On Saturday evening the newly married couple held a reception in the spacious parlors of the Central house where they received many hearty congratulations from their friends. May their relations be happy and prosperous, and the matrimonial life which they have thus begun be as cloudless as its beginning indicates.

THE WEATHER.

REPORTED BY PRENTICE AND EVENSON DRUGGISTS.

The thermometer at 6 o'clock last night stood at 40 degrees above; at 1 o'clock A. M. to-day at 36 degrees above; at 7 o'clock A. M. at 36 degrees above, and at 1 o'clock P. M. at 40 degrees above. Snow.

The indications to-day are, partly cloudy weather, with light snow or rain, northerly to easterly winds, generally lower barometer, and no change in temperature.

RESCUED FROM DEATH.

The following statement of William J Coughlin, of Somerville, Mass., is so remarkable that we beg to ask for it the attention of our readers. He says: "In the fall of 1876, I was taken with a VIOLENT BLEEDING OF THE LUNGS, followed by a severe cough. I soon began to lose my appetite and flesh. I was so weak at one time that I could not leave my bed. In the summer of 1877 I was admitted to the City Hospital. While there the doctors said I had a hole in my left lung as big as a half dollar. I expended over a hundred dollars in doctors and medicines. I was so far gone at one time a report went around that I was dead. I gave up hope, but a friend told me of DR. WM. HALL'S BALSAM FOR THE LUNGS. I laughed at my friends, thinking that my case was incurable, but I got a bottle to satisfy them, when, to my surprise and gratification, I commenced to feel better. My hope, once dead, began to revive, and to-day I feel in better spirits than I have the past three years.

"I write this hoping you will publish it, so that every one afflicted with Diseased Lungs will be induced take DR. WM. HALL'S BALSAM FOR THE LUNGS, and be convinced that CONSUMPTION CAN BE CURED. I have taken two bottles, and can positively say that it has done more good than all the other medicines I have taken since my sickness. My cough has almost entirely disappeared, and I shall soon be able to go to work." Sold by druggists. 1
